Common Terms

Deductible

This is the amount you pay each year for eligible health care services before the Plan starts to pay.

NOTE: Certain preventive services are paid by the Plan at 100 percent without any deductible.

Coinsurance

Once you've reached your deductible, the Plan will pay a percentage of your eligible health care costs (for example, 90 percent), and you'll pay the remaining percentage (for example, 10 percent) until you meet the coinsurance out-of-pocket maximum.

Copayment

In the meantime, you might have copayments. These are fixed costs you pay for certain in-network health care expenses, usually at the time of service (for example, paying $10 when you pick up a prescription). Copays do not count toward your deductible or out-of-pocket maximum.

Out-of-pocket maximum

Designed to protect you, this is the maximum amount you pay in coinsurance each year before the Plan starts paying 100 percent for eligible health care services (except for in-network copays).
